

Lioncore Records

PRODUCTION HOUSE

Lioncore Records is a full production house with over 16 years in professional music experience. Founded in 2013 by award-winning music director, producer and entrepreneur Indy Sagu, you can expect nothing but the best quality and service from an artist that has a proven track record.

Production House

Music Production

The creation of a song(s), album(s), project(s), radio and television commercials/advertisements, all produced from inception to completion in a professional studio.

Mixing

A piece of music/song/score already arranged and completed, brought to us in audio stems ready for final mixing before going to master.

Teaching

We teach all aspects of music production and digital sequencing, including vocal recording, mixing, layering, beat patterns, composition and arrangements. This ranges from a basic, advanced and professional level. Teaching is bespoke per student and course length.

Mobile Studio

Everything you need to record your professional sound in your own environment and comfort.

Contract Work/Hire

We are available for hire for teaching in music production and sequencing, this includes schools, colleges, universities and/or any other form of creative arts. We help in the development and successful implementation of the Course/project structures to meet with national curriculum guidelines, giving the client, student and artist the best possible chance to complete the projects successfully. (Discounted rates are available for charities & governing bodies)

Scores

We can score original musical pieces for short films, movies or any other original project.

We can also help in the following areas

- Photo-shoots
- Music Videos
- Video editing
- Filming commercials for TV
- Models
- Graphic, cover, banners, social media design, etc
